About UofL's Equine Industry Program

There is no educational opportunity quite like the Equine Industry Program offered by the University of Louisville's College of Business. For any young person aspiring to a career in the horse business, no other college degree is as useful. UofL's equine majors take the entire business core, as well as 30 hours of specialized courses in the business of horses. UofL is located in the heart of horse country, so that instruction in the classroom is supplemented with field trips, prominent guest lecturers, and internships.

When it comes to horses, UofL means business...

Individuals who have already completed a baccalaureate degree (BS or BA) may earn a one-year postgraduate Certificate in Equine Business. High academic standards and a unique program have attracted a faculty interested in the education and careers of students, and in the application of sound management to the equine industry.

As a participant in the conception of the original stewards' program, the University of Louisville's Equine Industry Program has been conducting schools and testing stewards since 1989 and judges since 1995.

Requirements

To maintain accreditation, all accredited racing officials, stewards and judges must attend a continuing education session approved by the Racing Officials Accreditation Program totaling at least 16 credit hours every two years. This can be accomplished by attending one 16-hour session or two 8-hour sessions, as long as 16 credit hours are achieved every two years. The CE year ends on December 31st of a given year. Please note rolling over excess hours is not permitted. The CE expiration can only extend to the maximum of 2 years past the current year.

To Re-establish Good Standing

An accredited person who has not attended a CE program in more than two years must: complete the requisite number of 16-hour CE sessions, based on the number of years that have elapsed since the person last attended a CE session OR attend a 60-hour accreditation school.

An accredited person who has not attended a CE session in 10 or more years must: attend a 60-hour accreditation school AND pass all examinations.
